The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

Neither Needed Nor Wanted

The cudgel has been taken up against one of our favorite targets — the myriad of regulatory agencies, commissions, boards, departments, councils and examiners giving the "big brother" eye to practically every facet of our existence.

William F. Schmick, president of the Baltimore Sun papers has engaged them in battle with what he calls the "headless fourth branch of government."

His voice is given more force by the fact the he, as president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, has called upon ANPA to bridle the so-called independent agencies.

His concern has been at the Federal level while ours has been at the state level.

In the current issue of the California Roster, a compilation of officials and agencies supplied by the California Secretary of State, there are 77 pages of agencies and the names and addresses of the people who man them. Included is a ten page index which is captioned "Index to State Services" and there might be a question whether it is the agency being self-served as much as the public is being served with considerably more service than he really wants or needs.

Schmick views the Federal regulatory agencies as having "grown beyond comprehension" and whose "proliferation seems to have no end."

He says the "fourth branch" includes the National Labor Relations Board, Federal Communications Commission, Equal Opportunity Commission and Federal Trade Commission. There are 60 or more such agencies, large and small

"The organization of these agencies challenges the most fundamental concepts of our governmental system — the separation of powers," he said. "The challenge comes because they possess a combination of legislative, executive, and judicial authority, a circular kingdom of power and glory."

Because Congress failed to spell out its intent exactly has permitted a usurpation of power by the regulatory agencies and a dangerous point of view has been allowed to develop, he adds.

This point of view sees the administrative agency free to originate its own policies regardless of congressional intent.

The proper task of government regulation is to be fair, expeditious, impartial and consistent within the laws enacted by Congress.

Congress should insist on the retention of all legislative powers and the complete compliance by regulatory agencies of the policies defined in the legislation.

If Mr. Schmick lived in California and had all of our agencies to worry about in addition to the federal ones bothering him, he'd have a field day every day learning about some of the "service agencies" who give service neither needed nor wanted.

POSSIBLE SECOND CAMPUS

Committee Inspects Monte Vista Sites

Grossmont College's site selection committee will inspect three possible venues for a proposed second campus Saturday, including a pair of locations on the recently purchased Monte Vista Ranch land.

The Monte Vista sites and a third site, at Lake Jennings rd. and U. S. Highway 80, were named as the most attractive of several under consideration.

The committee is considering six proposals.

The Monte Vista ranch, sold two weeks ago to a developer, is planned to house a community of 25,000 or more within 10 to 15 years, according to planners.

The property there would be up for sale at $8,500 an acre for the choice site and $6,500 for an alternate location. The college needs between 150 to 165 acres to establish a second siite.

The price of the ranch land has doubled since voters had a chance to affirm plans to include $500,000 for a possible second campus in the original bond measure. The measure was twice defeated but passed when the $500,000 was trimmed.

Hamilton Judy, a realtor representing the owners of the ranch, said the sites may also be used for a major shopping center, if the committee doesn't move quickly.

Grossmont College was built to accommodate 5,000 full-time day students. The current enrollment is 7,829, the equivalent of 5,633 full-time students.

A private consultant recommended a second campus, rather than expansion.

New Benefits Are Automatic

Social Security beneficiaries need not apply for the 15 percent benefit increase just signed into law by President Nixon.

Robert M. Ball, Commissioner of Social Security, stated that, "Every one of the 25 million men, women and children now on the benefit rolls will receive the increase automatically."

"The first regular check in the new amount," Commissioner Ball said, "Will arrive April 3, the usual day for delivery of benefit checks covering payments for the month of March.

A separate check in the amount of the benefit increase for the months of January and February will reach beneficiaries later in April, probably during the week of April 20."

Refiguring the benefit amounts of the 25 million people now on the benefit rolls is a tremendous task, Commissioner Ball pointed out, and it must be done without disrupting the regular benefit payment schedule.

The El Cajon Social Security Office is located at 570 North Second st., in El Cajon, and is open from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The telephone number is 442-0851.

Sups Mull Water District Hassle

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — Whether Calavo Gardens may send its sewage into the ocean through the lines of the Spring Valley Sanitation District will be discussed by the agencies involved in an open conference on Jan. 21 at 9 a.m.

County supervisors, directors of the sanitation district, set this time to hear from the Otay Municipal Water District which has made the request.

Otay achieved the annexation of Calavo Gardens and vicinity instead of Spring Valley by running an active campaign for the annexation.

Spring Valley could have taken this route only if it had been authorized by the supervisors and there was never any chance of that.

Now, Chief Administrative Officer Fred Morey has recommended that Otay be allowed to buy one half of the now-excess capacity in the Spring Valley lines at the most easterly point.

This is 250,000 gallons per day in lines constructed by Spring Valley taxpayers and users of the sanitation lines.

Otay has the announced intention of building a water reclamation plant, which is a fancy name for a sewage disposal plant which gives thorough but expensive treatment to waste water.

The state Regional Water Quality Control Board denied Otay a permit for the plant unless an ocean outfall was available for emergency use.

The situation is complicated by a request of developers of a large subdivision, Hillsdale Estates, a controversial small lot development on the south slope of the ridge, to Otay for sewer service, a service the district cannot now provide.

It is further complicated by the proposed formation of an improvement district in the Otay district that would include the Monte Vista ranch property, acreage that could support a population of up to 45,000 people, south of El Cajon and east of Casa de Oro.

Warren Barney, executive officer of the sanitation district, has recommended that Spring Valley charge Otay $161,650 for capacity in the local district lines and the main trunk sewer, a charge that would be paid by Calavo residents.

He has also recommended that there be a service charge of $1.50 per month for each residential unit connected to the system so long as Otay does not have its proposed reclamation plant in operation.

Sups. Cut Speed Limit In Massachusetts Squabble

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — County supervisors on Monday ignored the advice of their own traffic experts on Massachusetts ave. in Vista La Mesa, but without making disgruntled residents happy.

They ordered the speed limit from University ave. to Hoffman reduced from 35 miles an hour to 25 miles an hour, but left the parking prohibition in effect on both sides of the street.

It was the parking restriction that mostly disturbed the residents, although they would like to see the traffic slowed down.

The mere posting of a lower speed limit, the board was told by County Engineer Howard Taylor and Capt. V. L. Herz of the California Highway Patrol, will not cause motorists to drive at a slower speed than they feel is reasonable and one at which the majority feel comfortable in driving.

The board also asked the engineer to report back in 90 days on projected costs to improve the section of the road to major road standards.

The alignment is substandard in both horizontal and vertical curves.

There have been 15 accidents in the past three years, but this accident rate is less than half of the state average.

The board seemed to lose sight of the fact that roads have traffic carrying functions beyond the prevention of accidents.

Attorney Daniel J. Tobin spoke for the residents as did F. J. Schnaubelt.

Tobin said the speed limit should be lowered, strictly enforced, and parking permitted. He said the residents want the cars parked on the street as a barrier on the curves.

Capt. Herz said the patrol did not have nearly enough manpower for a 24-hour patrol in the vicinity.

He said one reason there were no accidents on the street during the Christmas-New Year's period might have been because the patrol arrested 30 drinking drivers in Lemon Grove-Spring Valley.

The discussion continued for nearly two hours, much of it repetitious.

Supervisor Harry Scheidle kept referring to a county-imposed 1911 Act to bring the road up to major road standards.

Scheidle, who represents the area on the board, has made the same remarks before. There is a question, however, if the county has the same power to force a 1911 act improvement in the face of a property owner protest of over 50 percent that a charter city such as San Diego does.

Scheidle is a former city councilman and tends to transfer city solutions to county problems.

Thieves Hit Lemon Grove

Three thefts of moderate amounts were reported in the Lemon Grove area last week.

Four tires, rims and hubcaps, valued at approximately $130, were stolen from an auto parked next to a garage at 8215 Broadway. The theft occurred between 6 p.m., January 6 and 7:30 a.m. the next morning.

A burglar broke into San Altos School and removed $120 in cash during Christmas vacation. The theft was discovered January 5, at 7 a.m. when the school was re-opened.

A gun collection, valued at about $425, was taken from the home of Richard Woodruff, 7003 Jeane rd.

Impact Money At Stake

Netzley Goes To Washington To Battle Lawmakers On Aid

Mr. Deeds went to Washington and did very well, so the generation-ago movie related.

Whether the Lemon Grove school board had that thought in mind or not Monday night, is not known.

What is known is that the board instructed District Superintendent Byron Netzley to go to Washington to salvage, if he can, Public Law 874.

The President said he will veto PL 874. When he does it will reduce the Lemon Grove school district's income by $115,000. Since this amount is already budgeted, it will reflect itself as 35c on the school tax rate. PL 874 is contained in HR 13111 and contains Impact Aid money. The government has been paying these funds to school districts to soften the impact due to parents being employed by the federal government. In Lemon Grove, 797 students are in this category.

Netzley will urge local legislators to act to override the veto — and to request President Nixon to reconsider. Trustee Lyle Stumbaugh said that a small district, such as Lemon Grove, could better illustrate the urgency of need for PL 874. Netzley and President Nixon were collegemates.

Netzley will leave Jan. 24 for three days.

In other action, the board considered two automotive accidents in which there were no injuries. One involved a school bus at Troy and Sweetwater. The other concerned a district truck at Darryl and Kempf.

Dr. Bob Sutton presented results of state mandated tests which showed local youngsters performing higher than state average.

He also gave schedules on programs on drug abuse and racial awareness.

Employment Sets Record In December

A December record for employment and a relatively small increase in unemployment were highlights of the labor force situation in California last month, according to a report by the departments of Industrial Relations and Human Resources Development in the human Relations Agency.

A total of 8,120,000 Californians were working in December, more than in any prior December and above the year-ago level by 233,000, or 3.0 percent, William C. Hern, Director of Industrial Relations, stated. Between November and December, total civilian employment increased by 58,000, a sizeable gain for this time of year.

Learn Spanish the Easy Way

Hardison's Telespanish

By JAMES HARDISON

Please explain the words "Frito Bandito." Are these correct Spanish words or are they English words with Spanish endings?

"Frito" is taken from the Spanish verb "freir" which means "to fry." This is an irregular verb. When it is used in the first person the letter "e" is removed to construct "frio" for "I fry." You will also note that "frio" ends in the letter "o" to indicate that the subject is "yo" (I). Thus "Yo frio" and "frio" mean the same thing — "I fry."

"Frito" simply means "fried." It is a popular word in the kitchen in most Spanish-speaking countries. Delicate dishes of "pollo frito" (fried chicken), "pavo frito" (fried turkey) and many others are common.

When "frito" is used to modify a feminine word the suffix "o" is changed to "a". For example. if we wish to say "fried potatoes" the "frito" would change to "fritas" and result in "papas fritas."

"Bandito" is a variation of "bandido" which means "bandit." Spanish words ending in the suffix "ito" change the meaning, thus "bandito" means "little bandit."

Combine "frito" with "bandito" as they appear in some current advertising and the results are "Frito Bandito" which means "the little fried bandit." It may not make much sense but it sells a lot of tortillas.

Practice phrases below reflect variations of "freir" and "frito." You may wish to practice saying them with the recorded voice that says each word and phrases for you when you dial 276-2762.

IMPORTANT PHRASES:

Say "Como esta frito" (KOH-moh eh-STAH FREE-toh)
for "How is it fried?"
Say "Con mantequilla." (kohn mahn-teh-KEE-yah)
for "With butter."

USEFUL PHRASES:

Say "Le gusta la comida frita?" (leh GOOS-tah lah koh-MEE-thah FREE-tah)
for "Do you like fried food?"
Say "A veces me gusta." (ah VEH-sehs meh GOOS-tah)
for "Sometimes I like it."

OTHER PHRASES:

Say "Donde esta el bandido?" (DOHN-deh eh-STAH ehl bahn-DEE-thoh)
for "Where is the bandit?"
Say "En la televicion." (ehn lah teh-leh-vee-see-OHN)
for "On the television."

Medical Claims Change Carriers

Medical claimants in San Diego County changed medical insurance carriers on January 1, according to Sumio Oto, El Cajon Social Security Office Manager.

Medicare claims for medical services performed on or after January 1, 1970, in the counties of San Diego, Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Bernardino, Riverside, Imperial, San Luis Obispo, Los Angeles and Orange, should be sent to: "Medicare, Occidental Life Insurance Company of California, Box 54905, Terminal Annex, Los Angeles, 90054."

Claims for service performed in San Diego County during 1969, or earlier, should still be sent to: "Medicare, California Blue Shield, Box 7968, Rincon Annex, San Francisco, 94119."

California Blue Shield will also continue to process the claims of patients eligible for both Medicare and Medi-Cal, including past, present or future services. It will also continue to process claims for services performed in the counties of California not mentioned above.

Persons who have been sending their claims to offices of The Travelers Insurance Company, because of their Railroad retirement status, should continue to do so.

Oto said that transfer of this County to Occidental Life Insurance Company was part of a jurisdictional change to bring about a greater balance of workloads between Occidental Life and California Blue Shield. He added that this change should result in improved service to Medicare beneficiaries, physicians and other suppliers of medical services.

College Accepts Spring Students

Southwestern College is accepting applications daily for Spring Semester Registration, according to Lloyd Cassady, Dean of Admissions and Records.

"We have just completed a projected enrollment study, and according to all data available at this time, it appears we will have a considerable increase in Spring enrollment," Cassady stated.

He recommended early application and processing of all necessary registration forms in order to get the best selection of classes.

"Everyone must fill out an application form and any student taking more than six units must complete the Guidance/Placement Examination, and set up a counseling appointment," Cassady explained, "That is why we urge day students in particular to apply now."

The Admissions Office at Southwestern is open Monday through Thursday, from 7:45 a.m. until 7:45 p.m. and on Fridays from 7:45 a.m. until 4:45 p.m.

The last day to register for the Spring Semester is Friday, January 23. The deadline applies to daytime students only. Evening classes at the College have a late registration limited to two courses.

Instruction for the Spring Semester at Southwestern begins on Monday, February 9. Additional information registration may be obtained from the Admissions Office at the College.

Van Rips Nixon On School Aid

WASHINGTON — A task force report calling for at least a 100 percent increase in federal aid to education apparently is being suppressed by the Nixon administration, Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-San Diego, said this week.

The report recommends expenditures of $7 to $14 billion a year for education assistance, primarily in hard-pressed urban school districts. "Ironically," said Van Deerlin, "the President now is threatening to veto, on grounds that it is too expensive, a bill that would provide about $3.5 million in school aid."

The report was prepared by a task force headed by Dr. Wilson Riles, California's deputy superintendent of public instruction. It was completed Jan. 5, but not immediately made public.

"The task force brought together leading educators from throughout the Nation," Van Deerlin said. The panel was established last March by Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, to assist him in formulating educational policies.

Van Deerlin said the reason for the administration's apparent reluctance to release the report "couldn't be clearer.'

"Most directly and obviously, the findings of Dr. Riles and his distinguished fellow panelists demolish the President's contention that the $3.5 billion voted by Congress is too much to spend on education," he said.

The bill Mr. Nixon says he would veto also appropriates $600.2 million for impact aid. San Diego County, with a total entitlement of nearly $16 million, is eligible for more of this assistance than any other county in the country. But under a limitation proposed by the administration, San Diego school systems would receive only about $3.1 million, and local taxpayers would have to make up the difference, Van Deerlin said.

Tons of Suds

Californians consumed a record-breaking 11 million barrels of beer in 1969 and in so doing poured nearly $200 million of tax money into federal, state and local treasuries.

Figures released here this week by Geo. W. Ososke, Executive Vice President of the California Brewers Assn., indicate that beer consumption in the state was up 3.5% over 1968 with the tax total increasing by a like percentage.

Largest tax bite was laid on beer drinkers by the Federal government which received $99 million through its $9 per barrel excise tax.

'Trotters, Laughs On Tap At Arena

The world famous Harlem Globetrotters will open their bag of basketball tricks at the Sports Arena Friday night at 8.

Unbeaten since the 1962-63 season, the Trotters will oppose their traveling buddies, the Jersey City Reds, in their annual visit to San Diego. Capacity crowds watched them perform at the arena the last three years and another full house is expected this year.

The Trotters also will present a terrific variety show, one general manager George Gillett says is the best ever put together. Sixteen-year-old Ginny Tiu, a beauty who sings and plays the piano and guitar, is the headliner of the show. She's the star of a group that includes her two younger sisters, Vicky, 14, and Elizabeth, 12, and older brother, Alex, 17.

Known as the Ginny Tiu Revue, the Chicago-based family quartet plays contemporary pop music, including comedy and novelty tunes. Ginny appeared in movies with Elvis Presley twice in the last decade and on another occasion she had a sellout concert at Carnegie Hall.

A table tennis match between Norikazu Fujii of Japan and Neoh Simhock of Malaysia also will be included on the halftime program. "Cannonball" Fujii held the world title twice and won seven Japanese Open crowns.

Simhock is new to the U. S. He was 1966 Malaysian champion and in 1967 he won the Southeast Asia title. Neoh is noted for his defensive play.

Steve Parry, who used to appear on the Trotter's halftime shows with his father and sister, will do a solo act on the trampoline as part of the show, too.

The top clown of the Trotters still is Meadowlark Lemon, a 37-year-old cager who is a specialist at making fans laugh. He prepares for a game by just laughing.

"You can't lose anything by laughing," the funny man said. "How can the people laugh if they know that you aren't happy?"

Freddie Neal, a dribbling artist, also is good for many laughs as he teams with Lemon.

One of the newcomers with the Trotters for this week's visit is Dave Lattin, former Texas Western star. Tickets are on sale at the Sports Arena for game, sponsored by the San Diego Chapter of the Delta Sigma Chi.

Assemblage Exhibited At Unicorn

The Unicorn Theatre, in La Jolla, currently has on display an art exhibit of the works of Myrna Nobile. The show consists of nearly 20 pieces of assemblage.

Myrna Nobile, who received her masters degree in sculpture from San Diego and State in June 1969, has exhibited widely in the San Diego and Laguna Beach areas.

She is a member of the San Diego Fine Arts Guild and the Laguna Beach Art Association and has one of her works in the sales and rental collection of the San Diego Fine Arts Gallery.

Although her current show consists of Assemblage, Mrs. Nobile also works extensively in cast metal, enamel and intaglio.

The artist describes her exhibit as an expression of that which she feels is going on around her.

Dealing with the patterns and relationships of forms and how they function in space, she says that although each piece may have certain meaning to her, people can apply their own sense of values when viewing it.

While she regards art very seriously, she believes, "Art should also be fun. People should enjoy it."

The exhibit is located in the theatre lounge and is open daily through January 20 from 10 a.m. until midnight.

Show's Theme Is Holiday

The 25th anniversary edition of Holiday on Ice opens Tuesday at the San Diego International Sports Arena.

Several comedy acts are featured, including Muller's skating chimpanzees.

The show will be performed at 8:30 p.m. Jan. 20-23; noon, 4:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. on Jan. 24; 1 p.m. and 6 p.m. on Jan. 25.

The Band Brings Woodstock Here

A group of musicians called simply The Band will appear in concert here January 23 at the Community Concourse.

The five-man group, who are already becoming legends in the music world, will be making their area debut since fame has come their way.

The Band is unique. First, they've been together as a musical unit since the late 1950's. They've paid their dues all down the line, touring with Ronnie Hawkins as a backing band — the Hawks — hitting the road and playing honky-tonks and tough joints.

After Hawkins' career appeared to slow down (he has since been "rediscovered") the Hawks retreated to Woodstock, N.Y., and their music took on new dimension.

At first, the Woodstock atmosphere lent a country flavor to their work — but more importantly, it led to their meeting and eventual teamwork with Bob Dylan.

The Hawks toured with Dylan in 1965 and 1966, performing, again, as a backup band.

After Dylan's motorcycle accident and subsequent seclusion, the Hawks also disappeared.

Dylan and the band were hiding away in the Catskills, playing music. The everyday contact with Dylan added a new spectrum to the band's music, while the band's rough-hewn country flavor influenced Dylan's subsequent works.

The group appeared with Dylan in a Woody Gurthrie memorial concert in late 1967, causing a ripple of "who are they" among the crowd.

The group emerged in 1968 with the hand-to-hand distribution of "underground" tapes made of Dylan and the band, recorded in Woodstock.

The tapes received wide play on the FM circuit, but most never heard the band's music until the group released their LP, "Music From Big Pink" in the summer.

The album was a smash success. ROLLING STONE called it one of the best albums of the year. "The Weight" a hit track, was a popular single and was named the second-best album track of the year by the STONE.

The legend grew. The band toured, played concerts at the Fillmore, released a second album in 1969 and backed Dylan at the Isle of Wight concert.

They had it all together.

The band includes guitarist Robbie Robertson, organist Garth Hudson, mandolin player and drummer Levon Helm, bass Rick Danko and drummer and keyboard man Richard Manuel.

Tickets are on sale at the Civic Theatre Box Office, and all Highlander and Metro Agencies.

College Screens Three Comedies

The three comedies will be screened at 3:30 and 7 p.m. in order to accommodate the anticipated large audience that overflowed the Fine Arts Lecture Hall for the single showing of the first film in the Classic Comedy Series.

In "Go West Young Man," Mae West creates romantic chaos on the wide open plains when she goes West and becomes amorously involved with a handsome country lad portrayed by Randy Scott.

The "Barbershop" and the "Fatal Glass of Beer" star W. C. Fields in two of the best of his early comedies.

The public is invited to enjoy the best in early comedy as interpreted by Mae West and W. C. Fields. There is no admission charge to the Classic Comedy Series. Doors will open at 3 and 6:30 p.m.

Computerized Camping Said Successful

SACRAMENTO — If the first day is any indication, then the State Department of Parks and Recreation's new computerized campground reservation system is going to be a resounding success.

Parks and Recreation Director William Penn Mott Jr. reports that at the completion of the first full day of business January 5, there were 9,350 campsites reservations taken at the various Computicket outlets throughout the state for a total of $58,367.

Mott noted that the pattern of reservations is following that of the last two years when reservations were made by mail directly to the parks. Coastal parks, particularly those in the southern part of the state, are getting the heaviest pressure.

Borrego Springs; where Living Is Quiet, Casual and Uncrowded

by Max Goodwin

No one should pass up an opportunity to visit Borrego Springs in the winter.

Lute Mason, that stalwart of television and operator of a San Diego public relations firm, convinced us the other day that a weekend in Borrego might restore our suntan, our outlook on life and our energy.

Who can argue against this logic?

Since it had been five years or more since we had last seen Christmas Circle, the point from which all animal, plant and human activity starts in Borrego, the invitation was easily accepted.

But Borrego is a beautifully lonely place so we asked Municipal Court Judge Luther N. Hussey of Lemon Grove to also make the safari. With our beautiful wives we descended into the enveloping warmth and restfulness of this quiet desert. Borrego, in most instances, has been untouched by human hands but what had been touched was good.

Borrego, which means sheep or lamb, has a population of nearly 2,000 and is growing in a slow but orderly fashion — orderly because of strict zoning regulations and because of the intelligent control exercised by five or six wealthy families who control much of the land. They are determined that Borrego shall not become another Palm Springs.

Unlike Palm Springs

Palm Springs has attracted loud-mouthed, free spending tourists. Borrego wants none of this. Borrego's lights go out soon after dark and traffic disappears. Then there is nothing but the quiet and beautiful dark.

Under the cover of this serenity three of the larger landowners have made recent developments that upgrade the valley's image without changing its pulsebeat.

The families, related now by marriage are the Bob DiGiorgios, the Bud Kuhrtses, and the Perry Burnands. They have created a $1½ million condominium — 28 completely furnished one and two bedroom units of unusual elegance which rent for $35 and $45 a day. Adjacent is a $3 million shopping center with 16 of the 24 locations already in operation. Across town is the RoadRunner club, a mobile home park which also deserves the designation of elegance.

The condominium, Villa Borrego, is already 50% sold. Owners pay $28,000 for a furnished single bedroom unit; $39,000 for two bedrooms. L. F. Billings, a transplanted San Franciscan, is manager. He said there was a 50% occupancy when it opened two years ago although only 30% had been projected. So far this season, the rate is 70%. Some owners use Villa Borrego's property management service for extra income when they are back east in the summer, Billings said.

Leisurely Shopping

The nearby shopping center is well stocked but it comes as a shock to see the mall nearly deserted. Yet, that is the way it is planned. Leisure is the keynote and nothing is done to attract snarly crowds of shoppers. The shops motif are desert modern and spacious. Shopping is a pleasure.

The DiGiorgio, Burnand and Kuhrts group did not overlook the mobile home set. The RoadRunner Club is already developed and fully operational. The club occupies 72 acres of a 300 acre site. Density is six homes to an acre as compared with the 12-15 national average, according to Dwight Davis, youthful coordinator of RoadRunner. Davis is Bob DiGiorgio's son-in-law.

RoadRunner club's first element has 140 lots wrapped around an 18-hole, 2,845 yard executive golf course. While a completely furnished single bedroom, 800 square foot unit, sells for about $10,000, standards for skirting and landscaping are high and must be uniform. This adds to the feeling of thoughtful planning. Palm trees line the graceful sweep of the streets and frequent cul-de-sacs add to the green spot areas. Davis emphasized that elegance was the key here as it is at Villa Borrego and in the shopping center. A 3-bedroom, 200 square-foot mobilehome which sold for $33,000 is a case in point.

Pools Galore

All the amenities attendant desert living are at RoadRunner. Members enjoy the same benefits and privileges except the golf course. Non-golfers pay $125 a year less but the luxurious clubhouse with its outstanding appointments and furnishings, which accommodates 477 persons, is open to RoadRunner members. There are swimming pools and a theapeutics pool larger than many conventional pools. The latter has high pressure ports to massage tired bodies with bubbly water at a constant 105 degree temperature.

This, alone, can change one's disposition from bitter to sweet in a matter of minutes. There is a dry-heat sauna, billard and card rooms, barbecue preparation areas, exercise and locker rooms, a half dozen covered champion-size shuffleboard courts, croquet and bocce ball courts.

It convinced us that a family seeking desert living can find the solution to living problems at RoadRunner. The mobile home carries no property tax. A Department of Motor Vehicles license is required and this reduces rapidly as the years pass. The home can be moved to a different location if need be.

The land on which the mobile home is installed is leased for five years at $60 a month a lot.

For the part-time desert buff, there is a rental management service similar to the one at Villas Borrego where these little money-makers can be rented, during the season, for $150 a week, according to Davis.

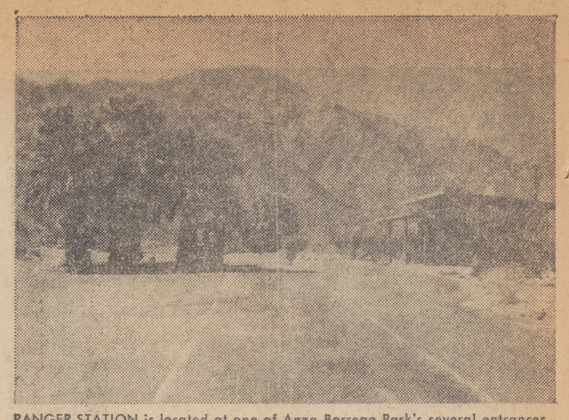
Davis said a San Francisco attorney, just a few days earlier, had bought two homes at RoadRunner and both will be ready in 30 days. Both have already been leased for the balance of the season, Davis said.

The season runs generally the same as the elementary school year. June to September are the hot months.

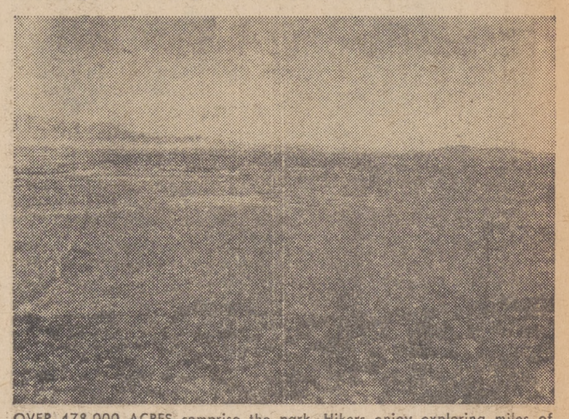
What with changing purples of the nearby mountains, the clear open skies, the bone-warming sunshine, the easy-going attitude of Borrego residents, the uncrowded shops and uncluttered roads and its upgraded character, Borrego is attracting more and more visitors and investors from this area.

Creamy Cheese

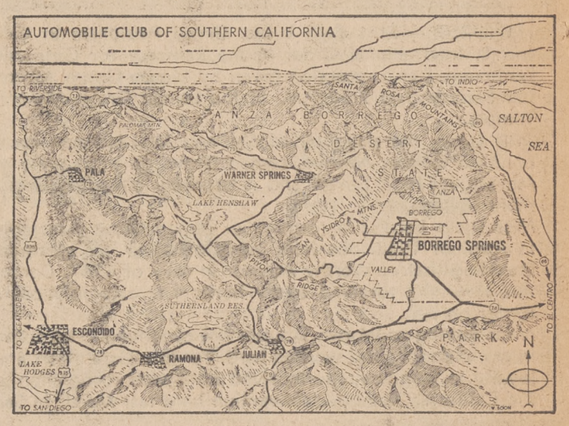
Cook cheese dishes at low or moderate temperatures only until cheese has melted into a smooth creamy form. Dairy Council of California home economists suggest grinding or grating the cheese before combining it with other ingredients, so the cheese will melt quickly without overheating.



RANGER STATION is located at one of Anza-Borrego Park's several entrances. Park has grounds for campers, tents and housetrailers.



OVER 478,000 ACRES comprise the park. Hikers enjoy exploring miles of trails which follow original routes of early settlers and Indians.



Conservation Compared In UC Extension Course

A new course aimed at giving teachers and school administrators an international view of environmental conversation problems will be offered by University of California Extension beginning Wednesday.

The course, "Conservation Education: A Comparison of U. S. and European Philosophy and Practice", is designed for educators from kindergarten to college level.

It will review major threats to environment in California and the nation, presenting policies and programs here and abroad which respond to them.

Dealing with both urban and rural environments, the course was conceived as the first of a two-part unit. A three-week summer study tour to be offered by UCSD Extension in conjunction with the class has been cancelled. However, students may still take the tour by applying to Extension at UC Davis or UCLA campuses before May 1.

Samuel E. Wood, who will teach the course, is the former executive director of California Tomorrow, a non-profit planning group. A specialist in planning, conservation and public works, Wood taught at Fresno and Sacramento State colleges. He received a doctorate in economics and political science in 1940 from the University of California at Berkeley.

The course will meet once a month through June, 8 to 10 p.m., Room 2100 of the Basic Science Building on the UCSD campus, January 8, 1970.

Coffey's Offers Full Lapidary Supply Line

By Chuck Curtis

Coffey's Bargain Town, 9120 Jamacha road, has long been known as a place where you could find almost anything from second hand plumbing supplies to antiques, fence wire, bowling balls, etc.

Now it is becoming even more well known as one of the most complete suppliers of Lapidary equipment, new and used, in the San Diego area.

Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Coffey became interested in rock hounding and Lapidary work about three years ago. Since that time Chuck has taken two courses in geology and has read between 150 and 200 books on the subject.

So extensive has his knowledge of the subject become that he now lectures at schools, service clubs, senior citizens groups and recreation centers.

Coffey's has become more than just a supply house because Chuck and his charming wife, Sis, always have time to help a beginner and have started quite a few people on the road to a pleasant and oft-time profitable hobby.

They will completely outfit a party and advise them on where to seek useable stones and how to recognize them. They also teach the beginners how to use the finishing equipment.

At Coffey's one can see a fascinating display of rocks including jades, amethysts, quartz crystals, Mexican coconuts and hundreds more. The Coffey's are even setting up a black light display case to show the beautiful flourescent stones.

Coffey's offers complete equipment for turning out exquisite gem stones and Chuck Coffey says that just about any piece of Lapidary equipment not in stock can be obtained in a day or two.

Chuck said the Lapidary work was occupying more and more of their time and they anticipate phasing out the rest of the business to concentrate on it. He said plans call for the establishment of classes on jewelry making, working in precious and semi-precious stones and silver work.

At the Lapidary Shop the rockhound can find a complete line of abrasives and polishing materials. The Coffey's purchase this material in bulk and then repack it in more convenient sizes at most attractive prices.

They also offer an extensive line of jewelry in precious and semi-precious stones in gold and silver mountings as well as in less expensive mountings

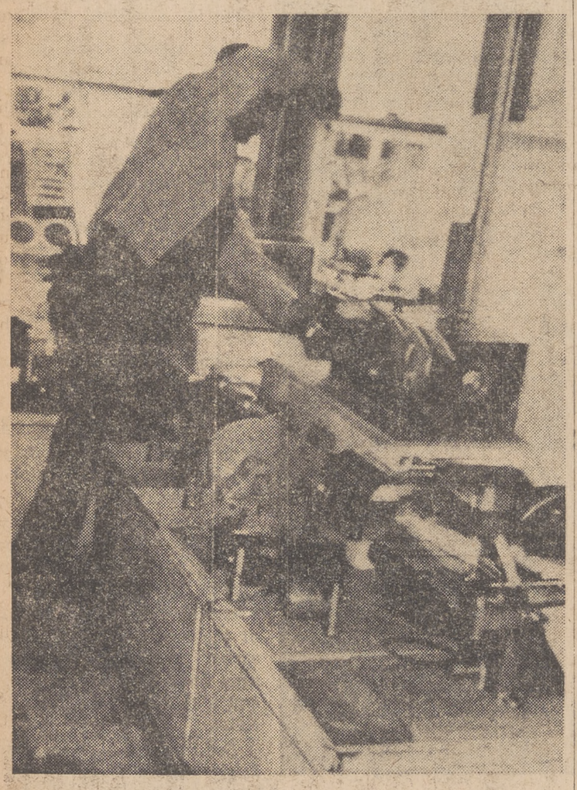
Among the machines offered for sale at Coffey's one finds the Viking Vibrasonic for tumble polishing stones such as topaz and Garnet, the Star Diamond grinding and polishing machine and gem making kits that are complete, along with just about any other Lapidary machine you could want.

Coffey's also has a diamond saw capable of cutting larger rocks, up to 14 to 16 inches in diameter and they do custom cutting.

If you are a rock hound or a jewelry lover, stop in at Coffey's, 9120 Jamacha road and chat with Chuck and Sis. You will be royally entertained.

Pizza Meals

Pizza prepared with lots of meat, cheese and tomatoes and served with vegetables or salad provides a well-balanced meal. Dairy Council of California dietitians point out that this pizza meal would contain foods from all Four Food Groups — milk, meat, fruits and vegetables, breads and cereals — all of which are necessary for a nutritionally adequate diet.



WELL STOCKED — The Lapidary Shop at Coffey's Bargain Town has an extensive line of machinery used in converting rocks into gems. Chuck Coffey relocates a unit after showing it to a customer. Chuck says he can obtain almost any piece of equipment not in stock, within a day or two

Tax Guide Ready

A 160-page booklet on how to fill out your new Federal income tax return is now available at all Internal Revenue Service offices throughout California.

The booklet, "Your Federal Income Tax," contains many examples to illustrate how the laws apply to actual situations. A special feature of the booklet is the sample, filled-in return, Form 1040, keyed to pages in the booklet where explanations can be found for the entries on the return.

The material, written in laymen's language, is especially helpful to taxpayers who have unusual tax situations or new tax problems, F. S. Schmidt, District Director said.

Examples of taxable and non-taxable income and of allowable and non-allowable deductions are included.

Monarchs Set Up Student Congress

A new Student Congress has been set up at Monte Vista High School this year as part of a program to further student-teacher communication.

The Congress, drawn up by ASB vice president Randi Herr and president John Krattli, states its purpose as "To decentralize the single Commission; to involve more students in the actual decision making level of student government; to more directly represent the students, and to increase more communication on the grass root level."

"If this can be accomplished, than I feel we will have the best student representation in the district," said Krattli.

"Because Student Council failed, we felt we needed something different. After long summer work, we came up with what is called Student Congress," said Randi.

With the newly proposed Student Congress, the Commission Class will not remain as the sole idea-presenting body of the past.

"What we want is student involvement. We want the students to care," commented Randi.

Communication is the main goal for Student Congress. During the meetings of every two weeks, representatives can bring up their opinions and ideas according to Krattli.

One example is the trash situation at the school. Several ideas brought up have been considered by the Administration with one being put into effect.

The powers of the Commission will be to administer activities, propose legislation, veto legislation, spend money, approve budget, and enter into interschool agreements under the new revision of powers to accomodate the Student Congress.

The powers of the Student Congress will be to review and recommend on all activities, approve legislation, pass legislation and override vetos with 2/3 majority, approve expenditures and loans, approve the budget, approve interschool agreements, and propose ammendments to the Constitution.

It is hoped for at Monte Vista that through these ideas, a unity will develop between students, faculty and administration with the new Student Congress as a vital tool in achieving this goal at the Monarchy.

Indoctrination Set

Campfire Girls Begin Peanut Sale

With a goal of 125,000 cans before them, more than 4,000 Camp Fire Girls in the San Diego County Council will embark on the 18th annual Peanut Sale Friday.

Keeping a watchful eye on the weather, the girls will offer the public a choice of two products, Peanut Combo, a mixture of three kinds of peanuts, and Corn Clusters, a confection of almonds, pecans and popcorn. Both products are vacuum packed and each sells for $1.

"The enthusiasm for this year's sale is tremendous," said Wallace Featheringill, council sale chairman, "and all the girls seem anxious to have a part in adding to the council building fund."

A large portion of the sale proceeds are designated for the youth service center at Camp Cahito in Balboa Park and for the new lodge-dining hall at Camp Wolahi. The annual sale also supplements the Camp Fire Girls budget for services in San Diego County.

Girls participating in the sale range from 7 and 8 year old Blue Birds, through Camp Fire and Junior Hi levels, to Horizon Club girls, the Camp Fire program for high school age girls.

Girls will sell door to door as well as at a number of sales bcoth locations throughout the county.

Persons who are not contacted by a Camp Fire Girl, or who would like to buy more cans of Peanut Combo or Corn Clusters, may contact the Camp Fire office at 233-3157.

Padres Draft Position Brings Pennant Closer

When the Padres exercise their first round selection at Saturday's free agent draft in New York, the team's turn toward a pennant may be accelerated appreciably.

For "the draft," the popular sobriquet given the event, is now recognized as a significant instrument especially available to expansion teams for building a winning future.

The Mets in hustling the world championship closed the case on the merits of the draft and awarded this year's editions — there's a June session also — added significance.

Mets who arrived in New York through the free agent draft include Jerry Koosman, Tom Seaver, Gary Gentry and Nolan Ryan — the heart of the pennant-winning pitching staff.

The Padres' Peter Bavasi, director of minor league operations, and Bob Fontaine, head scout, expect to emulate the Mets' success in the draft. And already there are solid indications they will do so.

Obligated last year to draft 24th on every round because of their expansion status, the Padres through Bavasi, Fontaine and their scouts assembled youngsters who performed exceptionally well.

Last year's Salt Lake City club of the Pioneer League, stocked primarily with Padre-drafted players, virtually tied for third place among seven rookie-dominated clubs and led the league into the last two weeks of the season. And Padre-owned players at Elmira (AA) of the Eastern League made significant contributions to that team's pennant struggle.

Bavasi and Fontaine, able to draft second on every round this Saturday and first on every round in the June draft, this year are confident of even greater success.

Other "drafted" major league players include Reggie Jackson and Sal Bando (Oakland), Ted Sizemore and Alan Foster (Dodgers), Dick James and Ken Holtzman (Cubs), Bobby Mercer (Yanks), Rick Reichardt (Angels), Al Oliver (Pirates), Larry Dierker (Astros).

Present Padres who were draft choices include Al Santorini and Clay Kirby.

Gulls-Canucks On Tap Tonight

The San Diego Gulls take on the Vancouver Canucks at the Sports Arena tonight at 8 o'clock, then close out their seven-game homestand with a game against the Seattle Totems on Sunday evening.

The Gulls will be trying to regain third place in the Western League standings during these two home games. Seattle edged ahead of San Diego during last week's action.

Following the Sunday evening game against the Totems, the Gulls embark on a short two-game road trip that kicks off a stretch of 17 games during which the Gulls will play 13 times on the road.

"That 17 game stretch isn't quite as bad as it would seem," said Gulls' General Manager-Coach Max McNab. "We are gone a lot, but the road games are broken up pretty well. The longest single trip is four games."

The possible return of some of the Gulls' injured players is another thing that makes the road stretch seem less formidable. Alex Faulkner, Ed Ehrenverth and Jim Eagle are all nearly ready to return to the lineup.

There is a possibility that any or all of the three could play either tonight or Sunday night. All three have been working out.

The return of Faulkner should give the Gulls' attack a boost. San Diego went through an offensive slump last week as the Gulls scored only two goals in dropping a pair of 5-1 decisions to Seattle and Vancouver.

Matadors Continue Slump, Lose

El Cajon's basketball team suffered a mild scare Friday night, but recovered to drub Mount Miguel, 80-53.

The win helped the Braves to a 2-0 league record, tied with Helix and Santana, while Miguel drooped to an 0-2 mark.

The Matadors, best in the county two years ago, have an overall 1-11 mark and are plainly rebuilding.

Tom Young and John Slater shared scoring honors for the Mats, with 17 each. Both are juniors.

The Braves, led by Dean Owens, retired to the locker-room at intermission with a 41-21 lead.

They ripped up the Matadors in the third period and led, 53-24, before they suffered a let-down.

Miguel ran off 10 straight points before the Braves could get their thing together. The Braves regrouped for a 12-2 advantage in the final two minutes of the period for a 65-36 lead at three quarters.

Owens, a star high-jumper in the spring, hit for 22 points, including 12 in the first half. He's been bothered by a sore ankle and the flu.

The slender senior was hot early, putting in eight of his team's first 14 points, getting Cajon off to a 14-2 jump.

Miguel's Mark Ricketts was the only other Matador in double figures, scoring 12 points.

Owens was helped by Sean Barrett (17), Mike Grover (15) and Mike Geddes (12).

Griffs Meet SB On Mat

With the Mission Conference wrestling championship probably on the line, the Grossmont Griffins will battle San Bernardino Valley College Friday night at Grossmont.

San Bernardino has been one of the great wrestling powers in the state the last few years, and has managed to win its conference championship every year since the 1958-59 season.

The Griffins won a share of the Pacific Southwest Conference championship last season, and opened the 1969-70 campaign with victories over Fullerton Junior College December 5, and Golden West College December 10.

Winning Score Predicted For Williams Open

SAN DIEGO — A winning score somewhere between Tom Weiskopf's windfree 273 in 1968 and Jack Nicklaus' rain-splattered 284 last year has been predicted for the third annual Andy Williams San Diego Open Golf Tournament, Jan. 27-Feb. 1, by the foremost authorities on the Torrey Pines course.

Don Makie, Superintendent of Golf for the San Diego Recreation Department and Fred Maheu, manager of the Torrey Pines course, based predictions of 281 and 279 respectively on assumptions that wind conditions would be normally disturbing and that there would not be the heavy rain of last year.

Makie, who presides over tournament site preparations that have also involved leading local golfers, P.G.A. official Wade Cagle, course supervisor Don Rodvold and greenskeeper foreman Joe Sally, indicated the course is essentially the same as last year.

"We will again use the first three holes of the North Course in place of holes 11, 12 and 13 of the South," he said. "The fairways will be contoured in the same pattern set by Paul Runyan when he was consultant," Makie added.

The only notable difference in the course, Makie said, is the addition of a third grass cut suggested by the Professional Consultant Committee of local golf celebrities, Billy Casper, Tommy Jacobs and Gene Littler — all, incidentally, former winners of the San Diego Open before it moved to Torrey Pines.

SHORTER GRASS

"We were asked to use a different mower for the aprons of the greens from what we used on the fairways. This means the apron grass will be about a quarter-inch shorter than last year. Golfers who roll just off the green may now use a putter instead of chipping."

Makie promised that every effort would be made to keep the greens from drying out after a rain and getting hard. "We feel the course is in excellent condition already, and it's our plan to keep it that way," he added.

Rough will be cut to three inches and will extend to an average of 10 feet either side of the fairway. Beyond that is the uncut rough which, presumably, is beyond the consideration of such expected stars as Nicklaus, Frank Beard, Dave Hill, Ray Floyd, Casper, Littler et. all.

Highlanders Slowed; Beat El Cap Anyway

El Capitan succeeded in "slowing down" the Helix express Friday night, but still found themselves a good bit behind, 68-44, in a game played on the Scots' floor.

El Cap, using a deliberate offensive plan, tried to hold down the tempo of the game and limit Helix scoring.

It worked, as far as it went. Helix scored only 68 points, after averaging well over 80 per game, and big man Bill Walton was held to 21, almost 10 points less than usual.

The trouble was, El Capitan's offense couldn't outmaneuver the Helix guards and mustered only a paltry 44 points.

Although the score was held down, the outcome of the game was never really in doubt.

The Highlanders edged ahead, 12-8, at the first period and slowly pulled away to a 32-20 halftime lead.

The Scots outscored the Vaqueros, 36-24 in the final half for the winning margin.

El Capitan's offense was basically a one-man affair. Star shooter Steve Vickery would try to work the ball on the right side, while the other four starters lined up on the left side of the key.

Vickery couldn't shake the Highlander guards and the play would be started over and over again until a shot or turnover was accomplished.

The resultant delay, given the factor that such an offense is not prepared to work, eats up the clock.

Mar Vista tried the same strategy two years ago in a game with the unbeaten Mt. Miguel quintet. The Imperial Beach school was run off the court by more than 70 points.

Walton and his mates didn't score much because they didn't shoot much.

Walton himself scored an 8 of 12 field goal attempts, and hauled in a dozen rebounds.

The Highlanders took only 67 shots, but got down 28 of them for a respectable, under the circumstances, 42 per cent.

Mike Dupree, after scoring only five points in the first half, finished with a spurt for 17 points.

Guard Randy Madsen added 10, forward Mike Honz had eight and Dan Coleman added six.

Steve Vickery led El Cap with 17 points. Wade Vickery had 10 and Clint Aldrich had 12.

The win put the Highlanders at 2-0 in league play, and tied for first with Santana and El Cajon. Monte Vista, a prime threat to the Scots, is 0-2 and scrambling.

The win also put the Scots season record at 17-0 and, combined with 16 straight wins at the end of last season, left their winning streak at 33, just two short of the county record established by Mt. Miguel two years ago.

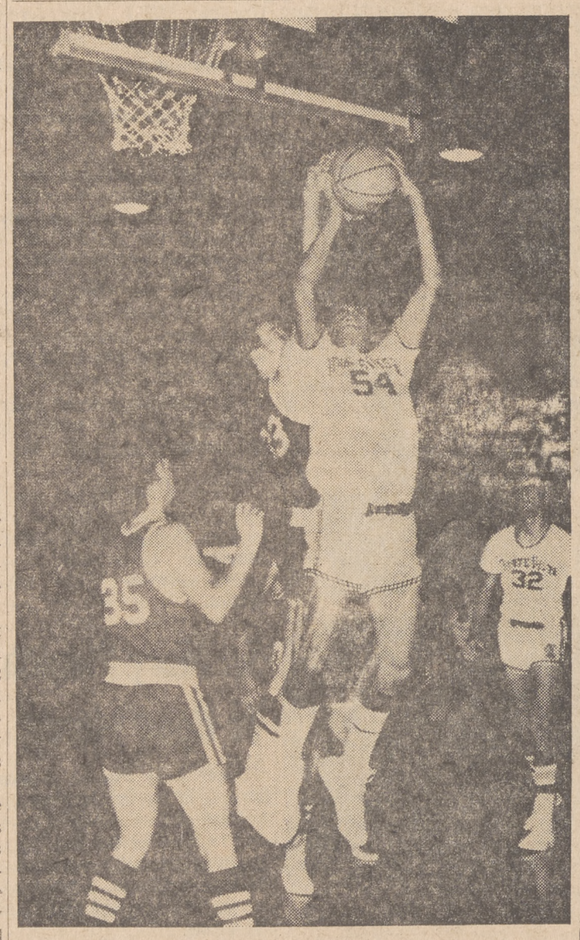
Santana Deals MV Heavy Blow, 52-51

Monte Vista's hopes of advancing to the CIF playoffs were dealt a blow Friday night when Santana reeled off a 52-51 win on the Monarchs' floor.



NAME OF THE GAME — Is defense. And that's what Santana displayed in edging Monte Vista, 52-51 Friday night. Here, Monarch Dan Heien (54) goes up for a shot, but Sultan Kyle Hypes blocks it from behind. Sultan Larry Rieger (35) and Monarch Jim Bristol (32) watch the action.
(Photo by Marc Lieberman)

The Sultans, ranked as one of the top three teams in league in pre-season, lived up to their clippings.

The finish was incredible. Sultan Larry Forster dropped a free throw to send his team ahead by a point with 14 seconds to play.

The Monarchs worked for one shot and Bill Belander let fly at the buzzer and the ball went in. A basket, or was it?

The referee ruled that Belander's shot had not been executed before the buzzer and the basket was not allowed.

It was the second tough loss in a row for Felix Rogers' Spring Valley team. The team had lost earlier in the week, a 67-61 squeaker to unbeaten Helix, in their league opener.

Santana's zone defense bothered Monte Vista in the first half, keeping the Monarchs away from the basket. After intermission, the Sultans shifted into a slow-down, man-to-man game.

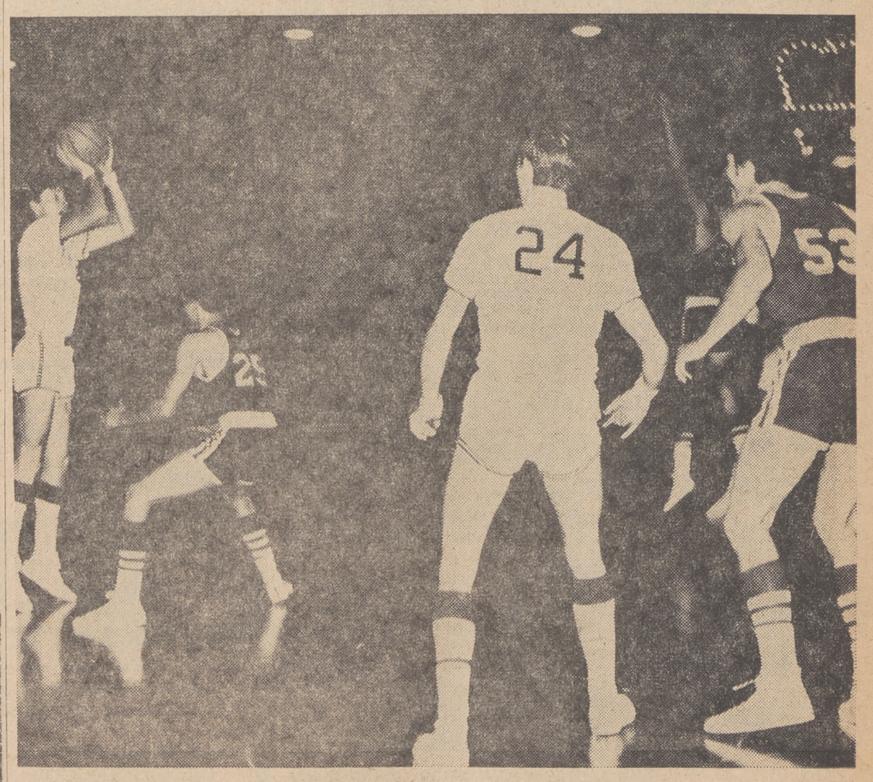
Bill Belander led the Monarch scoring, with 24 points. Bristol was next with nine in the low-scoring contest.

Santana was paced by Kyle Hypes, with 13, Dale Senninger, 12, and sophomore Geoff Hinkle, with 11.

The loss was only the third of the season for the Monarchs, including a Kiwanis semi-finals loss to San Diego, and a defeat at the hands of Helix.

The trouble is, two of the losses have been on the league schedule, leaving the Monarchs in last place with a dismal, 0-2 beginning.

Meanwhile, such teams as Santana, Helix and El Cajon have breezed to 2-0 starts.



NOT IN TIME — Monte Vista's Bill Belander (left), with his team trailing by a point with time running out, lets go with a shot that went through the nets. The shot left his hand as scoreboard clicked to zero time—and it didn't count. The Monarchs lost the game, 52-51 to Santana, in a battle of Grossmont League contenders.

High School Phenomenon Dominates Sports Talk

By Chuck Curtis

A sizeable group of area sports writers were sitting around the San Diego Rockets' Hospitality Room prior to a recent Rockets game having a chat about our favorite subject, sports (bet you were surprised.)

No, we were not discussing the not so super, Super Bowl nor the problems Cassius Clay is having in his attempted comeback.

We were chatting about the sport of the evening, basketball. Not about Big E or the sensational difference in the Rockets play since Alex Hannum took over as coach. Nor about the amazing Lew Alcindor and his fantastic freshman year.

We were not even talking about the battle between UCLA and Kentucky for the Number One national rating.

The talk was about a high school boy, "Spider" Bill Walton of Helix High School.

One point that was vague was Bill's height. The sports writers had him everywhere from the program listed 6-foot 10½-inches to in excess of 7-feet tall.

That was about the only point on which we differed. All were unanimous in their praise for the high school phenomenon. The boys spoke of his tremendous ability to move for such a tall boy. They mentioned Bill's ball handling and his ability to dribble a ball.

The members of the working press also spoke highly of his team effort and his pasing ability.

All this in addition to his tremendous scoring potential. A short time before Bill had poured in 50 points to lead Helix to a 110-68 win over Pasadena High in the Covina Tournament. Bill wasn't content with leading the scoring, he added 34 rebounds and uncounted blocked shots. Bill was named to the All-Tournament team and was named Most Valuable Player.

After the Pasadena win, Bill was averaging over 30 points per game, and that ain't hay.

Word is that Bill has received somewhere over 230 offers of college scholarships, which should cover about all the major colleges. The consensus of opinion is that UCLA has the inside track. After all, they (UCLA) are the glamour college of the west coast basketball world.

We are also advised that Bill Walton is a top scholar and should have no trouble on that score.

What ever college Bill selects will be getting one of the really fine young men turned out by the Grossmont School District and we will watch his progress with great interest.

* * * * *

I will never fully understand the method of selecting players for the North, South, East and West All-Star Games.

Last weekend we watched the North and the South battle to a 37-37 tie in the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Alabama.

Dennis Shaw of San Diego State was the quarterback for the North and was responsible for earning the North a come-from-behind tie.

Dennis is from San Diego and, from here, if he took two giant steps south he would be in old Mexico. Still he quarterbacked for the North.

Later we watched the Hula Bowl and it was another North-South split.

Bob Anderson of Colorado quarterbacked the victorious South in that one.

Now, if San Diego is north and Colorado is south, I figure I must be a real westerner since I was born in Brooklyn, New York, but I may be classified as an easterner since I have lived in California most of the last 20 years.

Who can tell. I am really beginning to agree with the younger generation when they say the "establishment" has really fouled up the whole world. Still it's a fun place to live.

* * * * *

Did you get your eyes opened wide over the weekend?

I don't mean by the scores of the various games, I mean by the money that changed hands.

I heard the boys who played in the Senior Bowl were to get $1,250 per man for the winners and $1,000 for the losers. Since they tied I presume each player received $1,125 for about 3 hours of playing a game I always loved.

Then along came the "Stupor" Bowl and the winning Kansas City Chiefs received $15,000 per man and the losers $7,500 each.

In three hours of play the losers made as much as I make for a full year of work that includes some of the most ridiculous hours one can imagine.

Padres 'MiniTicket' To Save Ten Percent

The San Diego Padres annonced a unique, low-budget ticket plan that is designed for persons who aren't able to attend all games, or even a majority of them.

According to Harold Parrott, director of sales and promotions, the new plan — called the MiniTicket — gives season ticket privileges to persons purchasing a minimum of 27 games.

Cost of a 27-game season ticket is $85, which represents more than a 10 per cent saving off the regular per game ticket value.

The purchaser selects off the schedule the 27 games he wants to attend, in any combination desired.

In addition to the ticket savings, the MiniTicket purchaser will be assigned a permanent seat, will receive preferred parking and will be given charge privileges at the box office, Parrott said.

"Under the plan, a purchaser is not restricted to selecting only 27 games," Parrott said. "He may select more and will enjoy a ticket saving for all games."

Parrott said that the MiniTicket is another in a series of Padre "people-pleaser" plans, which include a reduction in regular season tickets of $40 to $225, a 7:30 starting time for night games and Ladies Nights every Saturday.

Little League To Register

New players will need birth certificates to show they have reached eight years of age by July 31 or do not turn 13 until after July 31.

Lineup Set For Tennis Tournament

Prospects for a matchup of San Diego's top juniors against established local champions may overshadow the appearance here of some of the nation's highest ranked men from UCLA and USC at the 15th annual March of Dimes Tennis Tournament on Jan. 16, 17, 18, 24 and 25 at the Kona Kai Club.

National Boys Champion Chico Hagey of La Jolla, for instance, may square off against present and former San Diego Metropolitan titlists, Bill Bond of La Jolla and John Yeomans of Pacific Beach in the invitational men's singles.

Qualifiers in the first weekend of singles will fill quarterfinals berths against four top collegians from the Los Angeles area in matches set for Jan. 24.

In the open women's singles winner, Marita Redondo, who is only 13, will probably contend against La Jolla titlist, Mary Struthers of the Jewel City.

Currently invited to fill in the seeded quarter-finals berths are Roy Barth and Haroon Rahim of UCLA and the USC duo of Steve Avoyer and Joaquin Loyo-Mayo.

Entry deadline for the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association tourney is Jan. 10 at the Kona Kai Club.

Scuba Course At Copley Y

GAY BREWER

Gay Brewer Takes Prize

Gay Brewer, five year old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Lathrop, 7025 Waite dr., Lemon Grove, has been awarded first prize in the New Haven, Connecticut Advent Arts Competition sponsored by the United Church on the Green there.

The general subject matter of the competition, open to children ages five to twelve in the New Haven area, was "A Christ for All Men."

Gay chose chalk-crayon as the medium for her entry entitled "Let the children come." She was awarded the first prize of $25.

Gay is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garry Brewer of New Haven.

Owner Neglect Pet's Danger

Animals, like people, can suffer accidents and sudden illness. The pet owner who knows how to handle an emergency may save his pet's life.

The San Diego County Veterinary Medical Association states that all too often pet owners do not seek treatment until the animal has been ailing for several days, by which time it may be too late to help him.

The veterinary group emphasizes that immediate medical attention is imperative if your pet has been involved in an accident, dog fight, suspected poisoning, or has suffered severe burns.

Other conditions requiring speedy treatment are convulsions, diarrhea, vomiting, fainting, unusual swelling or discharge, and sudden loss of appetite, hearing or vision.

"Owner neglect" represents one of the veterinarian's most difficult problems, states the association, but adds that pet owners should not swing to the opposite extreme and place a "panic" call before making certain that an emergency situation truly exists.

Aztecs On Road For 2 Games

There's a saying that goes, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." Well, if one thought, apart from plain old winning, dominates the mind of San Diego State basketball coach Dick Davis, it's this one.

Davis' Aztecs dropped a close 60-56 decision to highly-favored Cal State Long Beach last Friday, so it will be try again this week as State will hit the road for two more Pacific Coast Athletic Association games.

San Diego will meet rough Cal State Los Angeles this Friday evening in LA and then test the Gauchos of the University of California at Santa Barbara the following evening on the UC court. Both games are set for 8:05 p.m.

Both the Aztecs upcoming foes met with more success than they did as CSLA split its two games (losing to nemesis Fresno State but besting San Jose State) and UCSB dumped both teams. In fact, the two game sweep puts the Gauchos on top of the PCAA all by themselves at 2-0 with Long Beach a shade behind at 1-0.

It was a case of poor shooting that deprived the Aztecs of a win over Long Beach in their struggle last week. State outplayed the visiting 49ers who are hot favorites to walk off with the PCAA crown, but found the range on only 35 per cent of its shots (23-66).

'Intermodal' Shipping New Shipping Concept

Milton Hallen, president of S.D. International Services, a specialist in foreign freight and cargo, told the Lemon Grove Rotary club Monday that a revolution is occuring in the shipping industry.

Containerization and standardization will eventually make producer to purchaser delivery an ordinary operation.

The shipping world is moving toward 8x8x20 containers to be used universally with machinery designed to handle it automatically.

The problem yet to be solved in San Diego he said, is that of getting shippable production high enough to warrant the Port Authority's spending millions of dollars on automatic equipment.

The new concept is called "intermodal", he said and it will come into full flower in the 70's.

The Rotary club meets Monday at noon at the Bowlero.

Chairman Urges Fight For Health

"We want to guarantee every child the precious birthright of health," commented Mrs. William Rees, chairman of the annual March of Dimes' Mothers March against birth defects.

"We have all known, directly or indirectly, the tragedy of parents whose child was born less than perfect," she added. "This family heartache must end.

"That is why the March of Dimes sets aside the month of January to ask public support of its year-round program of prevention, patient care, research, community services and education."

Mrs. Rees hailed two new breakthroughs.

The rubella vaccine is a dramatic triumph over the damage that often results to an unborn child when a woman contracts German measles during early pregnancy. The Rh vaccine has the potential to spare thousands of future citizens death in the womb or devastating handicaps because of Rh blood disease.

The most modern rehabilitation available from highly skilled medical specialists at nationwide March of Dimes Birth Defects Centers enables countless small victims to lead normal, useful lives that would be impossible without such help.

"Join us January 29," urges Mrs. Rees. "Call 284-1166 to volunteer your help."

College Employs Ballot Counters

An increase in the number of voters and a decrease in the time necessary to count ballots for the student government election is anticipated as the result of a class project originated by John Wright from Grossmont College's data processing systems class.

Working in close cooperation with the county registrar of voters, the data processing systems class designed special ballots that will be used in the election.

Two Votronic ballot counters loaned by the county registrar of voters will be used on Friday to count the ballots.

According to John Wright, all ballots will be counted in approximately one hour. It previously took from eight to ten days to hand count the ballots for a student government election.

Grossmont College students will have the opportunity to vote for the candidates of their choice, during both day and evening hours, from last Monday through Friday.

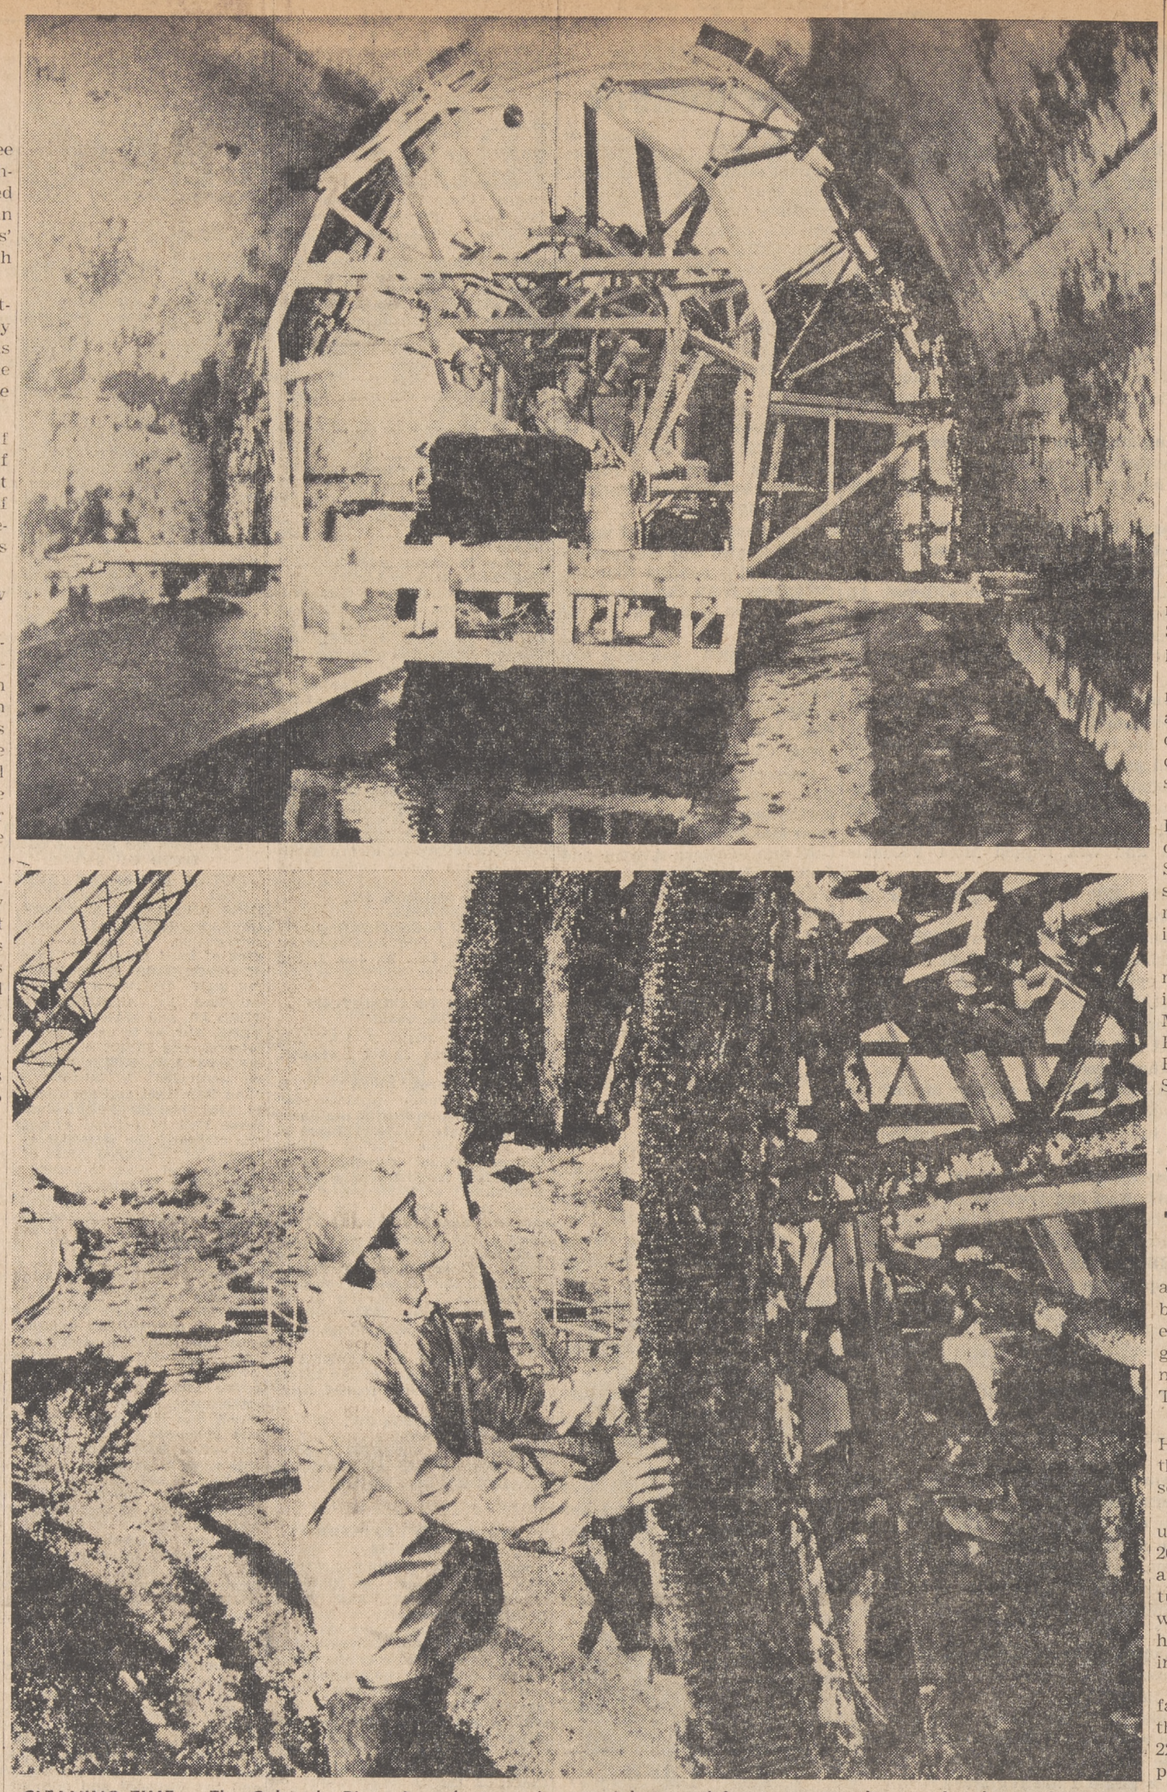
'How to Succeed . . .'

The musical comedy, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," a production of the North Shores Drama Workshop, will be presented Friday and Saturday at Roosevelt Auditorium at 8:30 p.m.

It will be produced every Friday and Saturday through January 13, according to Dr. Robert Bunyard, producer.

Tickets will be available at the boxoffice.

Australia produces only 11 percent of the petroleum it uses.



CLEANING TIME — The Colorado River Aqueduct, serving southern California, has been shut down until Friday to permit annual cleaning and maintenance work. Here, a Metropolitan District workman checks condition of steel brushes following a pass through section of conduit. Material scraped from concrete clings to brushes and rigging. The aqueduct supplies more than one billion gallons of water daily to six counties. Water storage will be more than adequate to fill the needs of users during the shut down.

Bridge Traffic In Sharp Rise

Traffic on State-owned toll bridges soared past the 110 million mark in 1969, a new record, the Division of Bay Toll Crossings reported.

Not including the new San Diego-Coronado Bay Bridge, the traffic increase on the bridge system was 4.2 percent over 1968.

The San Diego-Coronado Bay Bridge opened to traffic August 3, and has carried 3,145,610 vehicles through December 31.

The total for all State bridges during 1969 was 110,990,571.

Many Forget Car Numbers

Don't look now, but what's your automobile license plate number? Could you give the police a complete description of your vehicle if it was stolen today?

Department of Motor Vehicles Director Robert C. Cozens says "It's surprising how many people can't remember the license plate number of their car, truck, trailer or motorcycle when they need it most — not to mention the vehicle's engine or chassis identification number.

"This information is on the card which is handed or mailed back to every owner when he renews his 1970 registration," Cozens said.

"If you want to keep the card in the glove compartment of your vehicle, that's fine, but how about copying down the same information on a piece of paper to be carried in your purse or wallet or kept in a safe place at home?"

Cozens said auto insurance policies usually show the vehicle's license plate and identification number. "Be sure you know where to look for the information," he emphasized.

SDG&E To Spend Millions

The San Diego Gas & Electric Company will spend $56.3 million for construction in 1970 as it starts another decade of anticipated growth and development.

Joseph F. Sinnott, company president, said the utility is starting the 1970's with approximately 450,000 electric customers, an increase of 21,000 during 1969, and approximately 355,000 gas customers, an increase of 11,000 for the year.

Major expenditures for 1970 will include $5.6 million for underground construction, including $2.1 million for converting overhead lines to underground, and $3.5 million for undergrounding electric lines in new areas.

The $2.1 million budgeted for converting overhead electric lines to underground in 1970 is $400,000 more than budgeted for 1969. The conversion money will be apportioned for work in cities and counties on the basis of the number of electric customers in each.

NO "MIRACLES" HERE? — Antibiotics don't really aid the healing of gums after a tooth extraction and in fact may hinder it, according to a statement by the U. S. Food and Drug Administration. FDA was reported taking steps to remove three antibiotics usd for that purpose from its list of certified drugs.

Home Cooking Ends For Griffs

Three of the first four Mission Conference games played by Grossmont College were scheduled on the Griffins' home court, but the home cooking ends for the Fletcher Hills five Saturday night against Riverside City College.

Since the conference season started January 7, Grossmont has only had to travel to San Bernardino, while Southwestern, Chaffey, and now Riverside have had to trek to the Grossmont campus to tangle with the Griffins.

After Saturday's contest with Riverside, Grossmont will take an eleven day break for finals, before resuming play Wednesday, January 28, at Palomar.

Blake Mathews, the leading Griffin scorer, should be ready to go at 100 per cent following a twisted ankle in the San Bernardino game January 10.

After 14 games, Blake had a 17.1 scoring average, 73 assists, and had hit 71 of 86 free throws for 83 per cent to lead the team in all three departments.

Mathews' teammate on the C.I.F. championship Mt. Miguel team of two years ago, Dave Lower, is challenging for scoring honors with a 14.4 average and the assist with 52 in 14 games.

Dave is shooting 74 percent from the free throw line, and is way out in front with 146 rebounds.

Randy Hamilton, also on the Matador team of two years ago, is second in rebounds with 108, and is tied for third in scoring with Dan Morrow. Both players have scored 162 points for an average of 11.6.

Hoop Game And Dance Is Sat. Duo

The second Rocket Rock Nite of the season is on tap Saturday night at the San Diego Sports Arena and will follow the 8 p.m. National Basketball Association clash between the San Diego Rockets and the Baltimore Bullets.

The two teams met this past Tuesday at the Arena in the first San Diego meeting of the season. They had previously battled on two occasions earlier this term in Baltimore with the Bullets taking both games by 142-138 and 117-105 counts.

Featured in the Rocket Rock Nite, a post-game dance, will be the return of the popular White Lightning group, currently ranked No. 1 among San Diego rock fans. They will play until midnight Saturday.

There is no additional admission charge and students attending may bring their date free to the game by purchasing a $4 or $3 reserved seat.

The two appearances by the Bullets this week will be the only times that they will be in San Diego during regular season play. They meet once more in Baltimore and again in Houston.

Pacing the Bullets will be no less than three super-stars in Wes Unseld, last season's Most Valuable Player and Rookie of the Year; Earl "The Pearl" Monroe and 1970 All-Star Gus Johnson.

Scots Keep Winning, Top Braves

El Cajon, with a 2-0 record, and a defense designed to stop big Bill Walton, were regarded as an outside possibility to give Helix trouble in Grossmont League basketball action Tuesday afternoon.

It never materialized as the Highlanders played one of their finest games of the season to blast the Braves, 86-49.

Walton, in a muscle battle under the boards, survived for 20 points and 22 rebounds. He also blocked nine shots and turned away uncounted others with the sheer intimidation of his seven-foot frame shadowing the key.

The Highlanders started fast, moving out to a 12-0 lead that went to 18-4 and then to 22-8 at the end of the first period.

El Cajon battled back in the second period, and held their own. The Scots outscored them, 18-16.

Helix opened the throttle after intermission, however, with guard Mike Dupree leading the way.

Dupree hit six of eight shots and scored 13 of Helix' points in the period as the Scots raced to a 30-13 advantage.

El Cajon tried basically the same defense that Monte Vista used in nearly upsetting the high-flying Scots last week. The Braves concentrated on cutting off Walton near the basket.

Helix, however, was hot from outside, and that made all the difference.

Dupree finished with 19 points, while guard Randy Madsen had a season-high 17 points. Forward Mike Honz had 14, plus 18 rebounds.

The other forward, Dan Coleman, had only five points, but policed El Cajon star Dean Owens and held the hot-shot to four points.

The Braves, an evenly-balanced team, had to abandon normal offensive procedures in the face of Walton's opposition and scored far below their average.

Bill Matzen led the Braves with 15 points, while Mike Grover had 11. The Braves were out-rebounded, 61-24.

"I'll tell you one thing," El Cajon coach Jack Lasley remarked, "no one I know is going to beat them."

The win left Helix with a 3-0 league mark, an 18-0 mark on the season and 33 straight wins stretching over two seasons. The Scots are two short of tying the county record for consecutive wins by Mt. Miguel in 1967-68.

In other league action, Monte Vista gained a sweet victory by trouncing El Capitan, 74-43, Grossmont shaded Mt. Miguel, 76-74 and Santana bombed Granite Hills, 94-50.

The Monarchs used a devastating press to wipe out El Cap. The press netted a 16-9 advantage in the third period and a 23-5 spread in the fourth. Monte Vista led, 35-29 at the half.
